

Marwick Circular

3.9km (2.4m) Circular walk to Kitchener's Memorial, steep incline

MAINLAND

Fulmar

A circular walk to Kitchener's Memorial. It is a steep incline up to Marwick Head from the Marwick Bay car park. Although still up hill, it's easier from the car park at Midcomloquoy. The cliffs at Marwick Head are very high, please take care near the cliff edge, especially on windy days.

Kitchener's Memorial

Marwick Head is a RSPB reserve and has one of the largest seabird colonies in Orkney, with every ledge and crevice occupied by nesting birds during the summer.

Sea Pinks

Crowded cliffs

More than 25,000 guillemots and almost 5000 pairs of kittiwakes are crowded into less than 1 mile of coastline.
